Memorandum regarding the probable amount of monsoon rainfall in 1948.

Previous weather conditions over certain parts of the world enable us to form an estimate, within somewhat wide limits, of the monsoon rainfall in India during the period June to September. All predictions of this type should aim to pass a statistical test of 80 per cent. success, or, in other words, to be correct four times out of five on the average over a long series of years. In some years, however, the known factors give conflicting indications and the risks arising then from the unknown factors either prevent the issue of any forecast of practical value or else force the issue of a forecast with less than the customary four-to-one chance of success.

This year information regarding Java rainfall is meagre but the available data have been used. Dutch Harbour temperature data are not available. The available data are given in section 2 below; these are followed by notes on the relevant inferences that may be drawn from them.

2. DATA.

Snow in the mountain region northwest of India :—Snow fall reports indicate that over the western Himalayas as a whole the accumulations at the end of May were normal.

Java :—The monthly rainfall departures from October 1947 to February 1948 were +93 per cent. +57 per cent., +13 per cent. —28 per cent. and —11 per cent. respectively.

Equatorial pressure :—Pressure was in deficit by 0'.012 at Port Darwin from March to May and in excess by 0''.009 at Seychelles in February and March and by 0''.004 at Batavia from January to April.

South Rhodesia :—Rainfall from October 1947 to April 1948 was in excess by 1".4.

South America :—Pressure departures were as follows :—

	Buenos Aires.	Cordoba.	Santiago (Chile)
April 1948	+0.3 mm.	+0.7 mm.	+0.7 mm.
May 1948	+0.4 mm.	+0.2 mm.	-0.1 mm.

3. INFERENCES FROM THE INFORMATION.

For the Peninsula (taken to consist of Gujarat, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, the Central Provinces, Hyderabad and the north Madras Coast) the available factors found to be of most importance are, in the order of decreasing reliability, rainfall in South Rhodesia, pressure in South America and Java rainfall. This year South Rhodesia rain is slightly unfavourable, South American pressure moderately favourable and Java Rainfall very unfavourable. There is a four to one chance that the total monsoon rainfall of June to September in the Peninsula will lie between 82 per cent. and 111 per cent. of the normal.

For Northwest India (taken to consist of the west United Provinces, the East Punjab, Kashmir, Rajputana and a portion of western Pakistan comprising of West Punjab and North-West Frontier Province) the factors used are, in the order of decreasing reliability, South Rhodesia rain, South American pressure, Equatorial pressure and snow-fall accumulations in the western Himalayas. Of these South Rhodesia rain is slightly unfavourable, South American pressure favourable, Equatorial pressure indifferent and snowfall accumulations slightly favourable. There is a four to one chance that the total monsoon rainfall of June to September in Northwest India will lie between 79 per cent. and 128 per cent. of the normal.

4. SUMMARY OF FORECAST.

Of the forecasting factors which are used in forecasting monsoon rainfall of June to September, this year, the south Rhodesia rain and Java rain are slightly unfavourable, the south American pressure is slightly favourable and the rest are more or less indifferent. In view of the conflict between some of the factors, all
